Sarah Kawahara is known for finding and developing hidden treasures of movement in skaters, helping to create a signature style unique to the individual skater. In addition, she has enhanced the signature of many champions and can help you discover and develop your own signature style.

In today's skating climate, time to expand and experiment is limited. Sarah's comprehensive workshops find & explore inspiration and help skaters own their performance. They offer limitless fun and color to your skaters' repertoire, expanding the way they think, their perception, and increasing their vocabulary of movement.
